Pair of 'Eros' Side Tables by Angelo
Mangiarotti for Skipper - Italy, 1970s

A striking pair of sculptural side tables by the renowned Italian architect and designer Angelo Mangiarotti, produced by Skipper in the 1970s. Part of his iconic 'Eros' series, these pieces are a masterclass in form and function, balancing architectural precision with sensual materiality.

Carved from rich black Marquina marble, each table features Mangiarotti's signature gravity-based construction—where the top rests securely on the conical base via an elegantly engineered, interlocking joint. The organic, clover-like silhouette of the tops gives the design a modernist softness, while the natural veining of the stone adds individual character.

Includes Makers Mark

Designed without mechanical fastenings, the Eros series expresses Mangiarotti's belief in the integrity of materials and structure. These tables work beautifully as sculptural side pieces or even as low pedestals for art or lighting.
